Sunday Service at Kirk Braddan, Isle of Man. Old Kirk Braddan, famous for its crowded open-air services held in the graveyard (where are three curious Runic crosses of very early date), is not so old as it appears. It dates only from 1773, though the crosses referred to are assigned to the 11th and 12th centuries.

The stamps here are real wonderfuls. We (my brother & I) were in one as armed last night. It was lovely. I like it this better than I did from train. Enjoy it. Hope you are enjoying yourself.
